Photographic installation on Institution under construction Sep 28, 2025

steals from net

Karolina Wojtas

Karolina Wojtas takes bizarre photos found online that once obsessed her and recreates them one-to-one, turning anonymous internet images into staged homages.

Video installation on Institution under construction Aug 13, 2025

The Rite of Spring

Katarzyna Kozyra

Seven synchronized screens re-envision Igor Stravinsky's Le Sacre du Printemps (1913) with aged, nude bodies in stop-motion, cycling through life, death and rebirth while challenging ideals of youth and beauty.

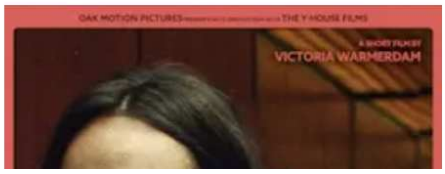

Music on Institution under construction Sep 27, 2025

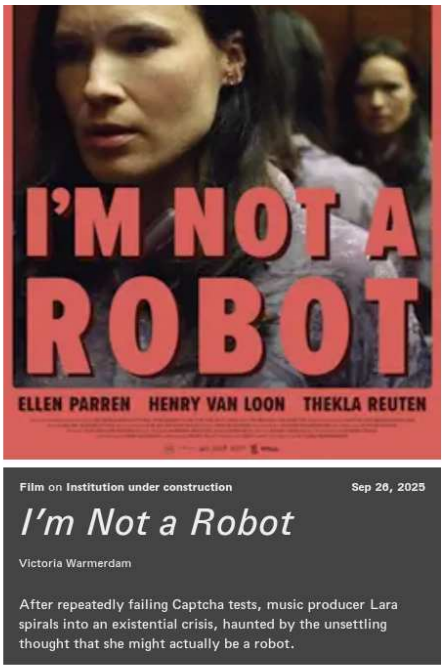

SYNC/IDENTITY

Mattia Cupelli

SYNC/IDENTITY is a dark ambient exploration of shifting sonic layers, where hypnotic textures and experimental rhythms blur the line between the mechanical and the human.

W035 原图纵向 2120–3180 像素

Film on Institution under construction Sep 26, 2025

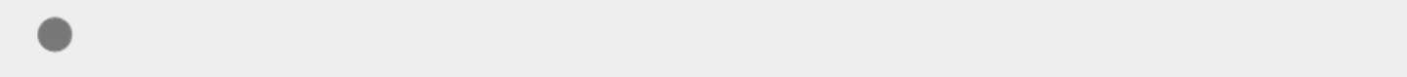

I'm Not a Robot

Victoria Warmerdam

After repeatedly failing Captcha tests, music producer Lara spirals into an existential crisis, haunted by the unsettling thought that she might actually be a robot.

W035 原图纵向 3180–4240 像素

W035 原图纵向 4240–4319 像素

机构实验室：2025 年的新项目

从作品列表点击该作品；依次记录详情、播放、静音、全屏。切换作品前返回列表。

W036 · 旧版证据 036

作品详情：机构实验室：2025 年的新项目

用户操作	在 TV 列表点击该作品卡片（编号 12）。
实际结果	显示播放器、作者、发布时间、作品介绍和相关推荐。
中文备注／不确定性	下方互动按钮当前禁用；播放器的播放、静音及全屏另行截图。
Figma	尚未取得设计画板，无法匹配

W036 原图纵向 0–1060 像素

Institution was created to bring contemporary art back to the center of cultural life, restoring its essential role as a tool for reflecting on the present.

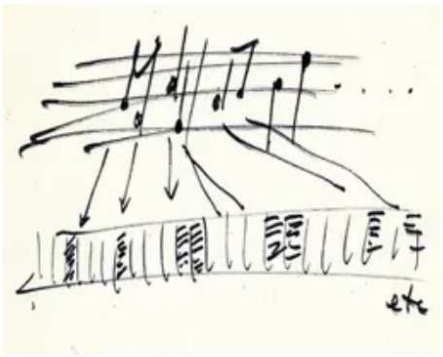

See Also

Institution under construction

Fabio Cavallucci

Institution Lab: a new project for 2025

Institution was created to bring contemporary art back to the center of cultural life, restoring its essential role as a tool for reflecting on the present.

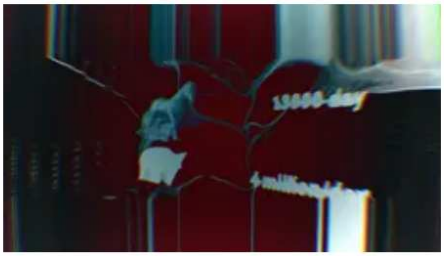

Institution under construction

Józef Robakowski

Attention: Light!

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Institution under construction

Artiom Constantinov

Pain, Suffering

"Pain, Suffering" is an audiovisual composition addressing the theme of cognitive dissonance applied to the objectification and use of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this state of dissociation.

W036 原图纵向 1060–2120 像素

Contacts
Privacy Policy
Cookie Policy

Funded by the European Union

MINISTERO DELLA CULTURA

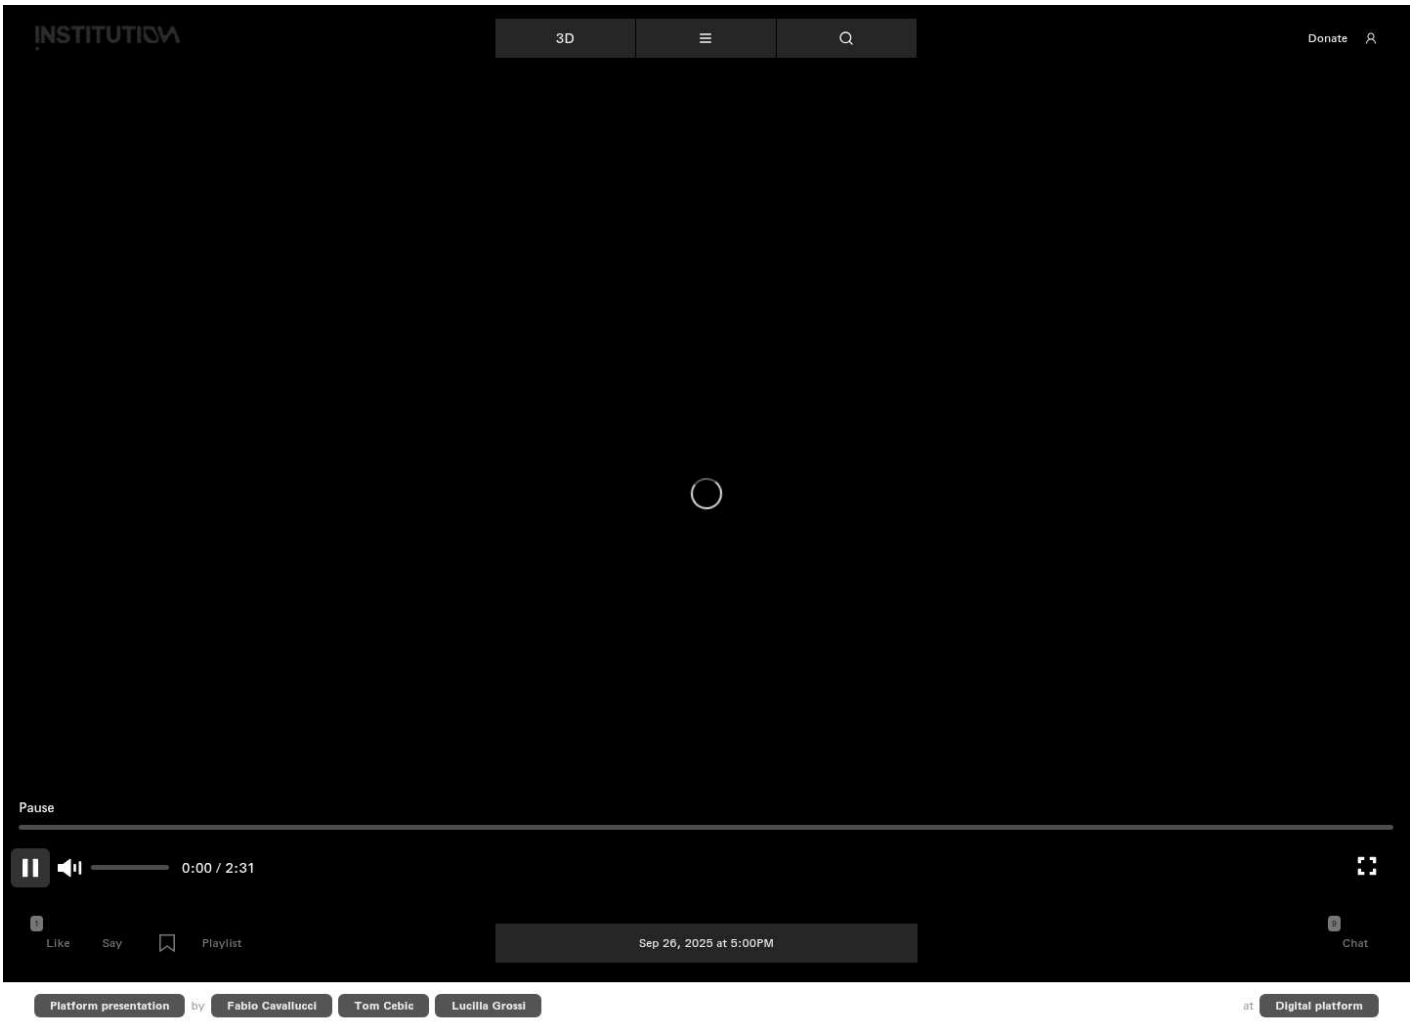

INSTITUTION

W036 原图纵向 2120–2851 像素

W037 · 旧版证据 037

《机构实验室：2025 年的新项目》：播放

用户操作	进入作品详情，点击播放控件。
实际结果	已点击播放器播放控件并保存页面状态；该页使用嵌入式播放器。
中文备注／不确定性	没有取得原生 video 的时间状态，无法仅据该次截图确认视频已实际播放；保留为“已操作、播放结果未确认”。
Figma	尚未取得设计画板，无法匹配

W037 原图纵向 0–1060 像素

Institution was created to bring contemporary art back to the center of cultural life, restoring its essential role as a tool for reflecting on the present.

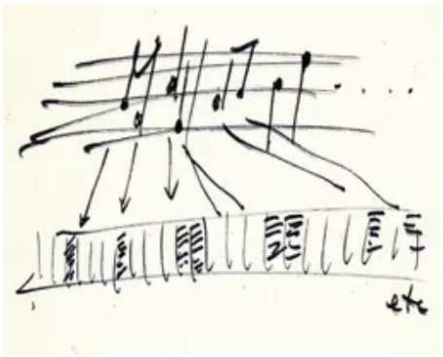

See Also

Institution under construction

Fabio Cavallucci

Institution Lab: a new project for 2025

Institution was created to bring contemporary art back to the center of cultural life, restoring its essential role as a tool for reflecting on the present.

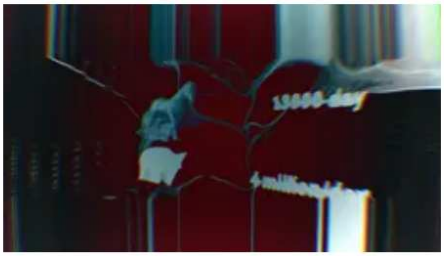

Institution under construction

Józef Robakowski

Attention: Light!

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Institution under construction

Artiom Constantinov

Pain, Suffering

"Pain, Suffering" is an audiovisual composition addressing the theme of cognitive dissonance applied to the objectification and use of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this state of dissociation.

W037 原图纵向 1060–2120 像素

Contacts
Privacy Policy
Cookie Policy

Funded by the European Union NextGenerationEU

MINISTERO DELLA CULTURA

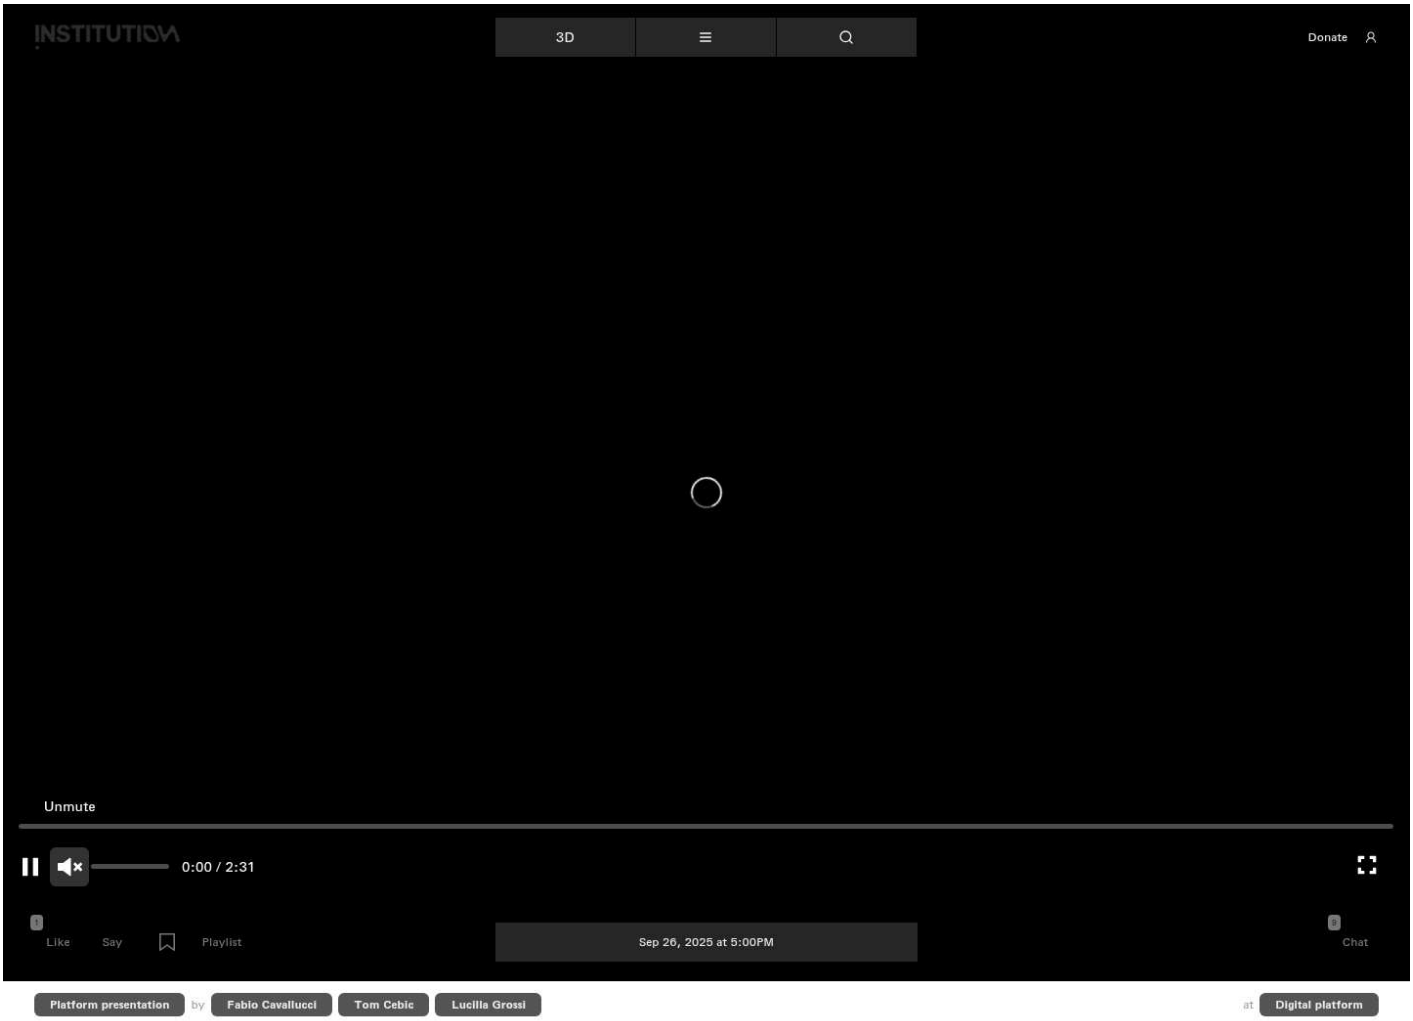

INSTITUTION

W037 原图纵向 2120–2851 像素

W038 · 旧版证据 038

《机构实验室：2025 年的新项目》：静音

用户操作	进入作品详情，点击静音控件。
实际结果	记录播放器或控件变化后的页面。
中文备注／不确定性	播放成功与否以播放时间、paused、readyState 或画面为证，不把出现播放器本身当作播放成功。
Figma	尚未取得设计画板，无法匹配

W038 原图纵向 0–1060 像素

Institution was created to bring contemporary art back to the center of cultural life, restoring its essential role as a tool for reflecting on the present.

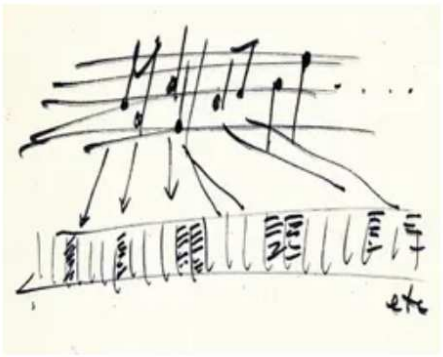

See Also

Institution under construction

Fabio Cavallucci

Institution Lab: a new project for 2025

Institution was created to bring contemporary art back to the center of cultural life, restoring its essential role as a tool for reflecting on the present.

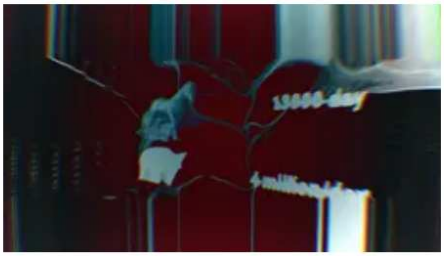

Institution under construction

Józef Robakowski

Attention: Light!

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Institution under construction

Artiom Constantinov

Pain, Suffering

"Pain, Suffering" is an audiovisual composition addressing the theme of cognitive dissonance applied to the objectification and use of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this state of dissociation.

W038 原图纵向 1060–2120 像素

Contacts
Privacy Policy
Cookie Policy

Funded by the European Union

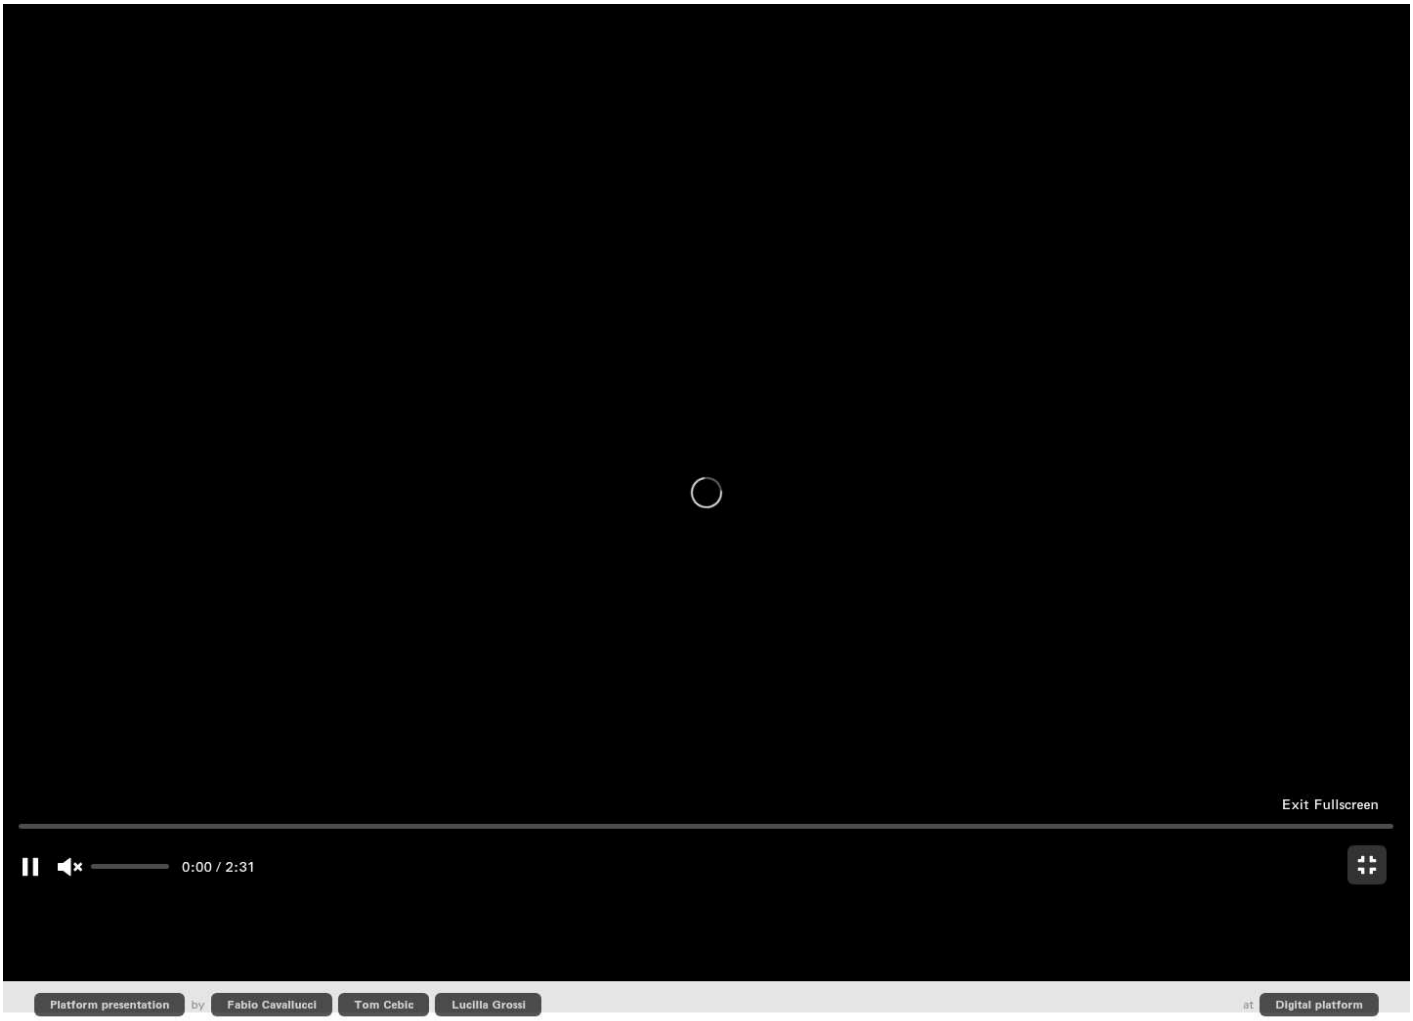

MINISTERO DELLA CULTURA

INSTITUTION

W038 原图纵向 2120–2851 像素

《机构实验室：2025 年的新项目》：全屏

用户操作	进入作品详情，点击全屏控件。
实际结果	记录播放器或控件变化后的页面。
中文备注／不确定性	播放成功与否以播放时间、paused、readyState 或画面为证，不把出现播放器本身当作播放成功。
Figma	尚未取得设计画板，无法匹配

W039 原图纵向 0–1060 像素

Institution was created to bring contemporary art back to the center of cultural life, restoring its essential role as a tool for reflecting on the present.

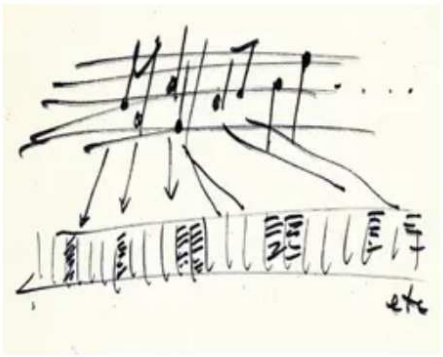

See Also

Institution under construction

Fabio Cavallucci

Institution Lab: a new project for 2025

Institution was created to bring contemporary art back to the center of cultural life, restoring its essential role as a tool for reflecting on the present.

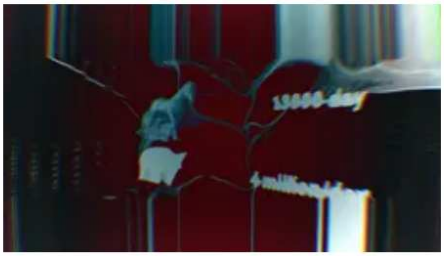

Institution under construction

Józef Robakowski

Attention: Light!

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Institution under construction

Artiom Constantinov

Pain, Suffering

"Pain, Suffering" is an audiovisual composition addressing the theme of cognitive dissonance applied to the objectification and use of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this state of dissociation.

W039 原图纵向 1060–2120 像素

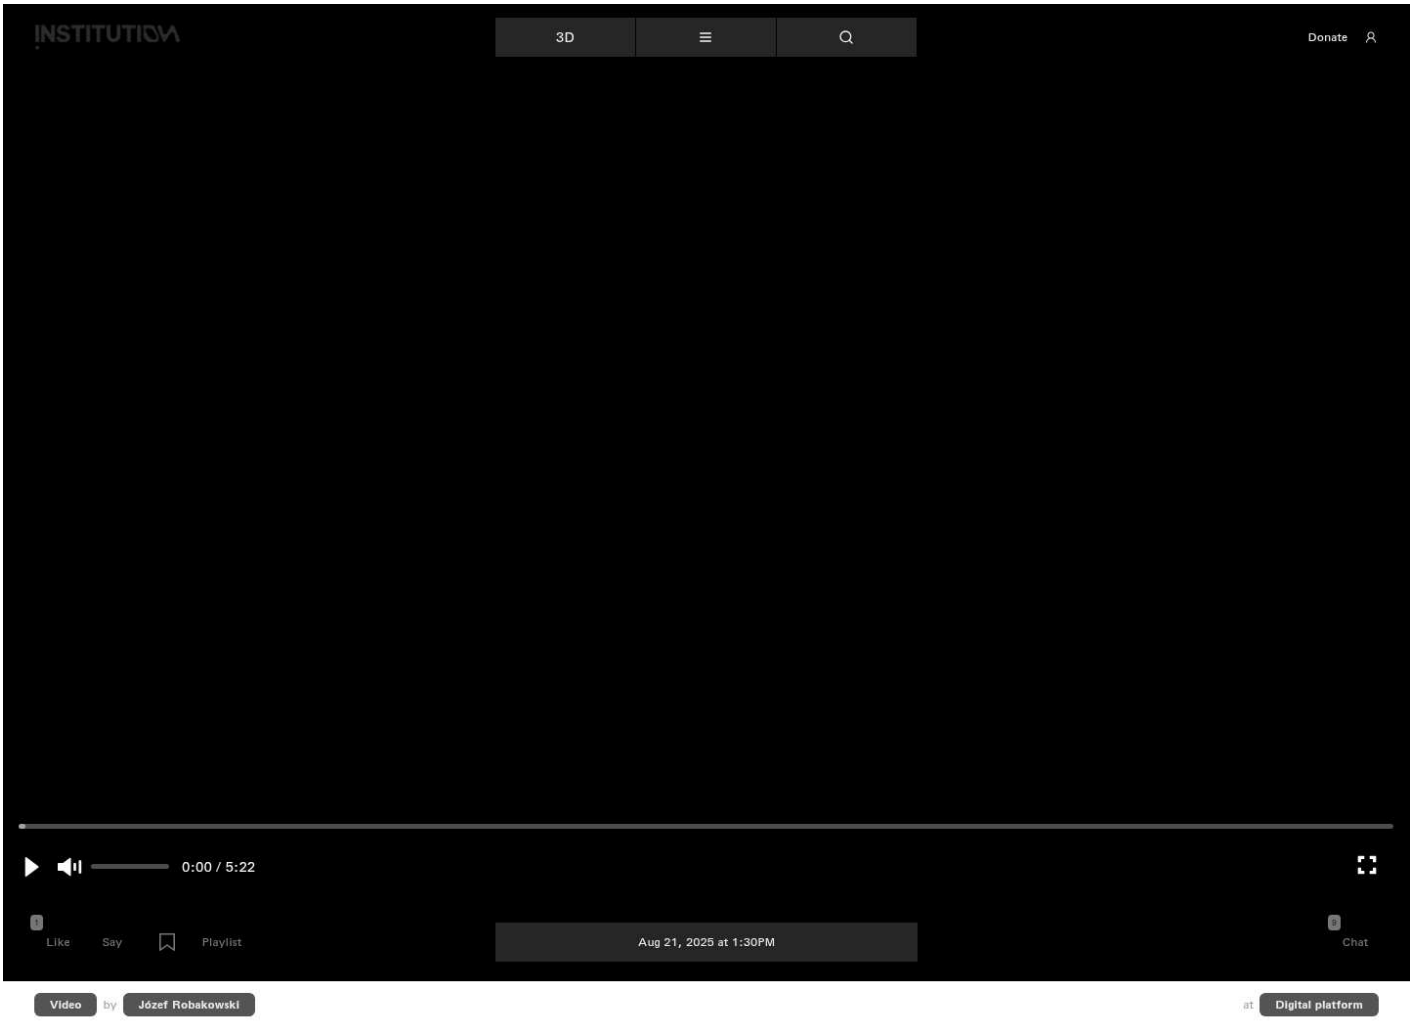

W039 原图纵向 2120–2851 像素

注意：光!

从作品列表点击该作品；依次记录详情、播放、静音、全屏。切换作品前返回列表。

作品详情：注意：光!

用户操作	在 TV 列表点击该作品卡片（编号 5）。
实际结果	显示播放器、作者、发布时间、作品介绍和相关推荐。
中文备注／不确定性	下方互动按钮当前禁用；播放器的播放、静音及全屏另行截图。
Figma	尚未取得设计画板，无法匹配

W040 原图纵向 0–1060 像素

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Developed in close artistic dialogue with Wiesław Michalak, the piece originated from a conceptual sketch by Paul Sharits, leader of the structural film movement, created during his 1981 stay in Poland. Years later, this idea was reimagined through precise digital synchronisation, giving form to a cinematic score of pure chromatic transitions. Rather than illustrating Chopin's Mazurka in F minor op. 68 no. 4, the film makes its structure visible: hues shift with tonal changes, while sound intensity appears as saturation and contrast. What begins as flickering colour becomes a meticulous visual analogue to musical composition—a film where time is measured in light rather than notes. By transforming Sharits's sketch into a chromatic score, Robakowski reaffirms his commitment to cinema as pure energy—where light, sound, and perception merge into an experience that bypasses representation. The piece continues his quest to free the image from illustration, rejecting the socio-realist pretensions typical of the socialist regimes that shaped Poland and Central Eastern Europe during his youth and maturity, instead proposing a direct sensory encounter that restores the viewer's active role.

See Also

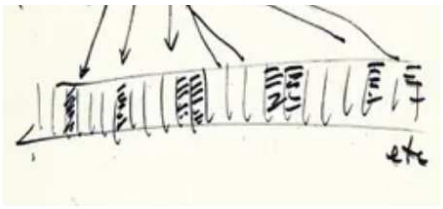

W040 原图纵向 1060–2120 像素

Institution was created to bring contemporary art back to the center of cultural life, restoring its essential role as a tool for reflecting on the present.

Institution under construction

Józef Robakowski
Attention: Light!

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Institution under construction

Artiom Constantinov
Pain, Suffering

"Pain, Suffering" is an audiovisual composition addressing the theme of cognitive dissonance applied to the objectification and use of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this state of dissociation.

Contacts
Privacy Policy
Cookie Policy

Funded by the European Union NextGenerationEU

MINISTERO DELLA CULTURA

INSTITUTION

W040 原图纵向 2120–3180 像素

W040 原图纵向 3180–3291 像素

W041 · 旧版证据 041

《注意：光！》：播放

用户操作	进入作品详情，点击播放控件。
实际结果	原生视频在采样时 paused=false，播放时间约 5.13 秒，readyState=4。
中文备注／不确定性	这些状态支持“播放已开始”，不代表完整播放至结束。未记录到视频错误。
Figma	尚未取得设计画板，无法匹配

W041 原图纵向 0–1060 像素

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Developed in close artistic dialogue with Wiesław Michalak, the piece originated from a conceptual sketch by Paul Sharits, leader of the structural film movement, created during his 1981 stay in Poland. Years later, this idea was reimagined through precise digital synchronisation, giving form to a cinematic score of pure chromatic transitions. Rather than illustrating Chopin's Mazurka in F minor op. 68 no. 4, the film makes its structure visible: hues shift with tonal changes, while sound intensity appears as saturation and contrast. What begins as flickering colour becomes a meticulous visual analogue to musical composition—a film where time is measured in light rather than notes. By transforming Sharits's sketch into a chromatic score, Robakowski reaffirms his commitment to cinema as pure energy—where light, sound, and perception merge into an experience that bypasses representation. The piece continues his quest to free the image from illustration, rejecting the socio-realist pretensions typical of the socialist regimes that shaped Poland and Central Eastern Europe during his youth and maturity, instead proposing a direct sensory encounter that restores the viewer's active role.

See Also

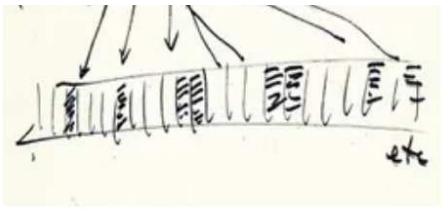

W041 原图纵向 1060–2120 像素

Institution was created to bring contemporary art back to the center of cultural life, restoring its essential role as a tool for reflecting on the present.

Institution under construction

Józef Robakowski
Attention: Light!

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Institution under construction

Artiom Constantinov
Pain, Suffering

"Pain, Suffering" is an audiovisual composition addressing the theme of cognitive dissonance applied to the objectification and use of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this state of dissociation.

Contacts
Privacy Policy
Cookie Policy

Funded by the European Union

MINISTERO DELLA CULTURA

INSTITUTION

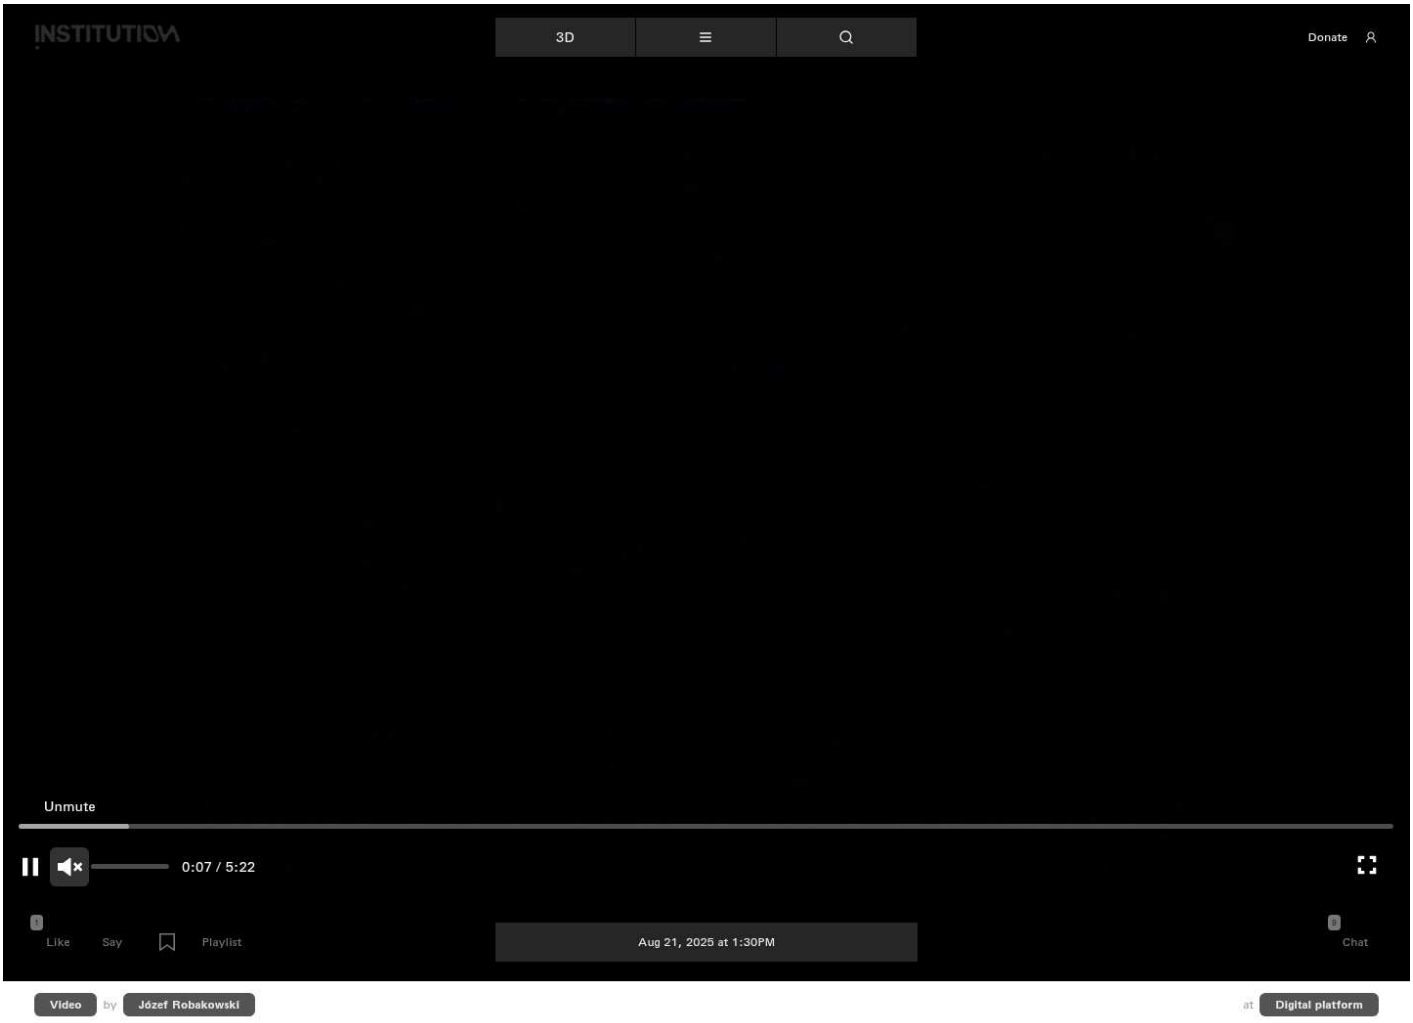

W041 原图纵向 2120–3180 像素

W041 原图纵向 3180–3291 像素

W042 · 旧版证据 042

《注意：光！》：静音

用户操作	进入作品详情，点击静音控件。
实际结果	记录播放器或控件变化后的页面。
中文备注／不确定性	播放成功与否以播放时间、paused、readyState 或画面为证，不把出现播放器本身当作播放成功。
Figma	尚未取得设计画板，无法匹配

W042 原图纵向 0–1060 像素

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Developed in close artistic dialogue with Wiesław Michalak, the piece originated from a conceptual sketch by Paul Sharits, leader of the structural film movement, created during his 1981 stay in Poland. Years later, this idea was reimagined through precise digital synchronisation, giving form to a cinematic score of pure chromatic transitions. Rather than illustrating Chopin's Mazurka in F minor op. 68 no. 4, the film makes its structure visible: hues shift with tonal changes, while sound intensity appears as saturation and contrast. What begins as flickering colour becomes a meticulous visual analogue to musical composition—a film where time is measured in light rather than notes. By transforming Sharits's sketch into a chromatic score, Robakowski reaffirms his commitment to cinema as pure energy—where light, sound, and perception merge into an experience that bypasses representation. The piece continues his quest to free the image from illustration, rejecting the socio-realist pretensions typical of the socialist regimes that shaped Poland and Central Eastern Europe during his youth and maturity, instead proposing a direct sensory encounter that restores the viewer's active role.

See Also

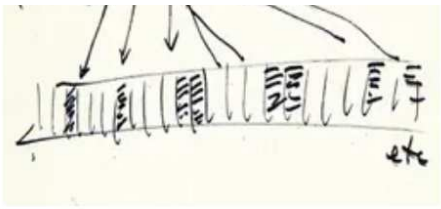

W042 原图纵向 1060–2120 像素

Institution was created to bring contemporary art back to the center of cultural life, restoring its essential role as a tool for reflecting on the present.

Institution under construction

Józef Robakowski
Attention: Light!

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Institution under construction

Artiom Constantinov
Pain, Suffering

"Pain, Suffering" is an audiovisual composition addressing the theme of cognitive dissonance applied to the objectification and use of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this state of dissociation.

Contacts
Privacy Policy
Cookie Policy

Funded by the European Union NextGenerationEU

MINISTERO DELLA CULTURA

INSTITUTION

W042 原图纵向 2120–3180 像素

W042 原图纵向 3180–3291 像素

W043 · 旧版证据 043

《注意：光！》：全屏

用户操作	进入作品详情，点击全屏控件。
实际结果	记录播放器或控件变化后的页面。
中文备注／不确定性	播放成功与否以播放时间、paused、readyState 或画面为证，不把出现播放器本身当作播放成功。
Figma	尚未取得设计画板，无法匹配

W043 原图纵向 0–1060 像素

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Developed in close artistic dialogue with Wiesław Michalak, the piece originated from a conceptual sketch by Paul Sharits, leader of the structural film movement, created during his 1981 stay in Poland. Years later, this idea was reimagined through precise digital synchronisation, giving form to a cinematic score of pure chromatic transitions. Rather than illustrating Chopin's Mazurka in F minor op. 68 no. 4, the film makes its structure visible: hues shift with tonal changes, while sound intensity appears as saturation and contrast. What begins as flickering colour becomes a meticulous visual analogue to musical composition—a film where time is measured in light rather than notes. By transforming Sharits's sketch into a chromatic score, Robakowski reaffirms his commitment to cinema as pure energy—where light, sound, and perception merge into an experience that bypasses representation. The piece continues his quest to free the image from illustration, rejecting the socio-realist pretensions typical of the socialist regimes that shaped Poland and Central Eastern Europe during his youth and maturity, instead proposing a direct sensory encounter that restores the viewer's active role.

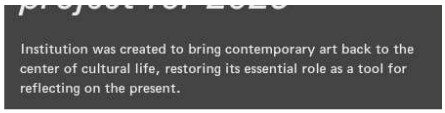

See Also

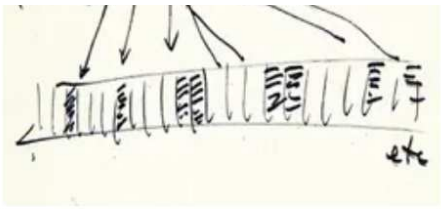

W043 原图纵向 1060–2120 像素

Institution under construction

Józef Robakowski
Attention: Light!

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Institution under construction

Artiom Constantinov
Pain, Suffering

"Pain, Suffering" is an audiovisual composition addressing the theme of cognitive dissonance applied to the objectification and use of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this state of dissociation.

W043 原图纵向 2120–3180 像素

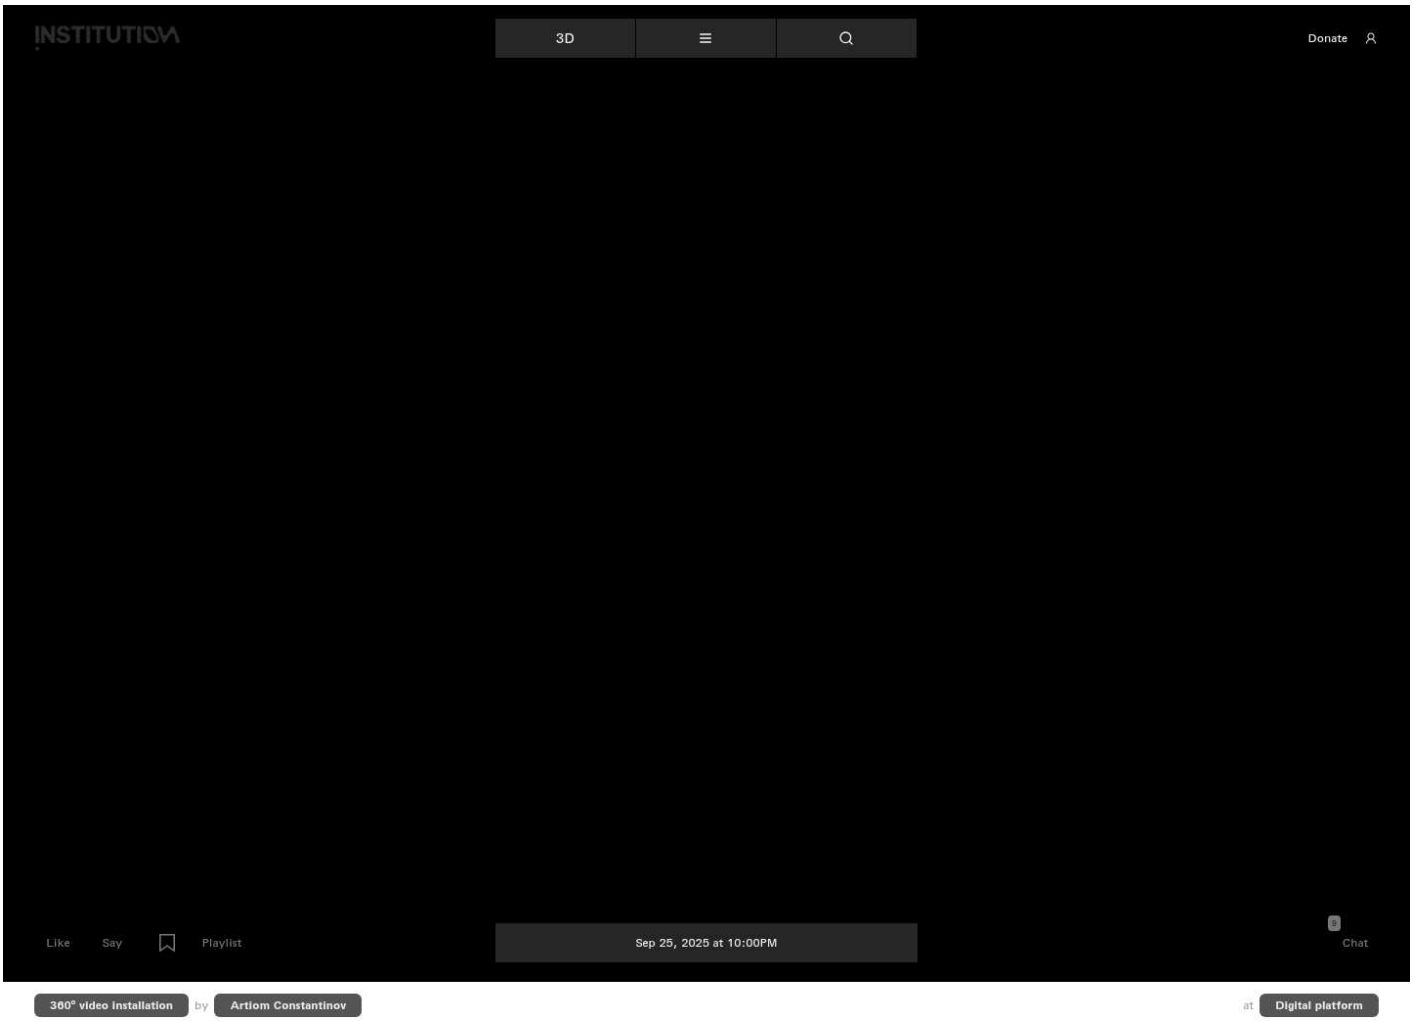

W043 原图纵向 3180–3291 像素

痛苦与苦难

从作品列表点击该作品；依次记录详情、播放、静音、全屏。切换作品前返回列表。

作品详情：痛苦与苦难

用户操作	在 TV 列表点击该作品卡片（编号 10）。
实际结果	显示播放器、作者、发布时间、作品介绍和相关推荐。
中文备注／不确定性	下方互动按钮当前禁用；播放器的播放、静音及全屏另行截图。
Figma	尚未取得设计画板，无法匹配

W044 原图纵向 0–1060 像素

“Pain, Suffering” is an audiovisual composition addressing cognitive dissonance in relation to the objectification and exploitation of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this fractured state of perception

At its core, the work features monologues that reflect on the conditions of animals in factory farms and, more broadly, on the shared capacity for pain and suffering between humans and non-humans. These voices underscore the inability—or refusal—to acknowledge that a piece of meat is the body of a living being who has been tortured and killed. Among the texts used are those by activist and educator Gary Yourofsky and by musician and activist Moby.

Musically, “Pain, Suffering” employs distortion and spectral filtering as metaphors for cognitive dissonance: clean sounds are warped until they become abrasive, or filtered to the point of being unrecognizable. The composition is audio-reactive, meaning the imagery responds directly to the evolving sonic landscape.

Visually, the piece juxtaposes documentary footage of factory farming and animal violence with generated and processed images, layering the real and the abstract to intensify the sense of unease and fracture. The result is an immersive environment where dissonance becomes both subject and aesthetic.

See Also

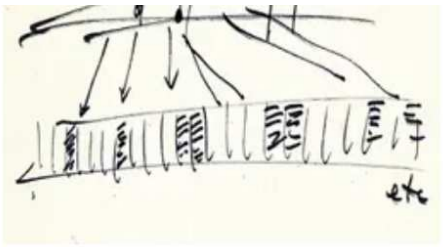

W044 原图纵向 1060–2120 像素

project for 2025

Institution was created to bring contemporary art back to the center of cultural life, restoring its essential role as a tool for reflecting on the present.

Institution under construction

Józef Robakowski
Attention: Light!

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Institution under construction

Artiom Constantinov
Pain, Suffering

"Pain, Suffering" is an audiovisual composition addressing the theme of cognitive dissonance applied to the objectification and use of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this state of dissociation.

Funded by the European Union
MINISTERO DELLA CULTURA

INSTITUTION

W044 原图纵向 2120–3180 像素

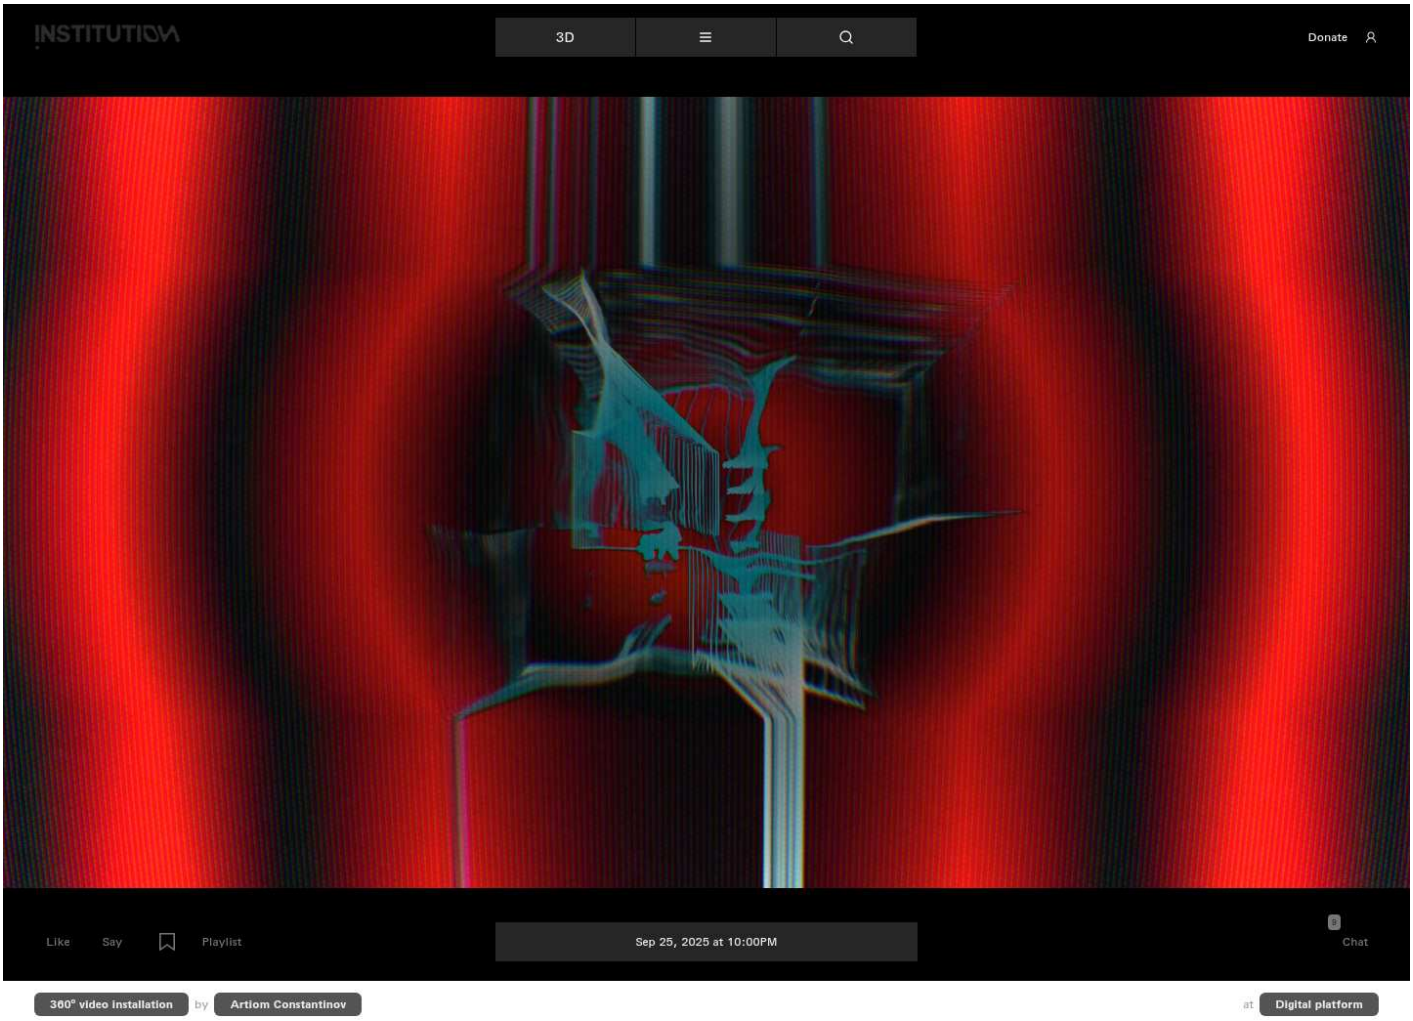

W044 原图纵向 3180–3331 像素

W045 • 旧版证据 045

《痛苦与苦难》：播放

用户操作	进入作品详情，点击播放控件。
实际结果	原生视频在采样时 paused=false，播放时间约 0.90 秒，readyState=2。
中文备注／不确定性	这些状态支持“播放已开始”，不代表完整播放至结束。未记录到视频错误。
Figma	尚未取得设计画板，无法匹配

W045 原图纵向 0–1060 像素

“Pain, Suffering” is an audiovisual composition addressing cognitive dissonance in relation to the objectification and exploitation of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this fractured state of perception

At its core, the work features monologues that reflect on the conditions of animals in factory farms and, more broadly, on the shared capacity for pain and suffering between humans and non-humans. These voices underscore the inability—or refusal—to acknowledge that a piece of meat is the body of a living being who has been tortured and killed. Among the texts used are those by activist and educator Gary Yourofsky and by musician and activist Moby.

Musically, “Pain, Suffering” employs distortion and spectral filtering as metaphors for cognitive dissonance: clean sounds are warped until they become abrasive, or filtered to the point of being unrecognizable. The composition is audio-reactive, meaning the imagery responds directly to the evolving sonic landscape.

Visually, the piece juxtaposes documentary footage of factory farming and animal violence with generated and processed images, layering the real and the abstract to intensify the sense of unease and fracture. The result is an immersive environment where dissonance becomes both subject and aesthetic.

See Also

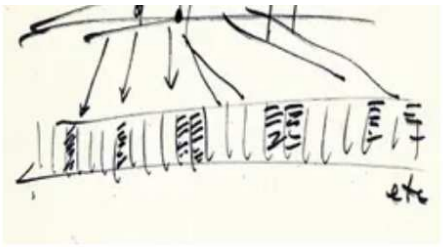

W045 原图纵向 1060–2120 像素

project for 2025

Institution was created to bring contemporary art back to the center of cultural life, restoring its essential role as a tool for reflecting on the present.

Institution under construction

Józef Robakowski
Attention: Light!

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Institution under construction

Artiom Constantinov
Pain, Suffering

"Pain, Suffering" is an audiovisual composition addressing the theme of cognitive dissonance applied to the objectification and use of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this state of dissociation.

Funded by the European Union NextGenerationEU
MINISTERO DELLA CULTURA

INSTITUTION

W045 原图纵向 2120–3180 像素

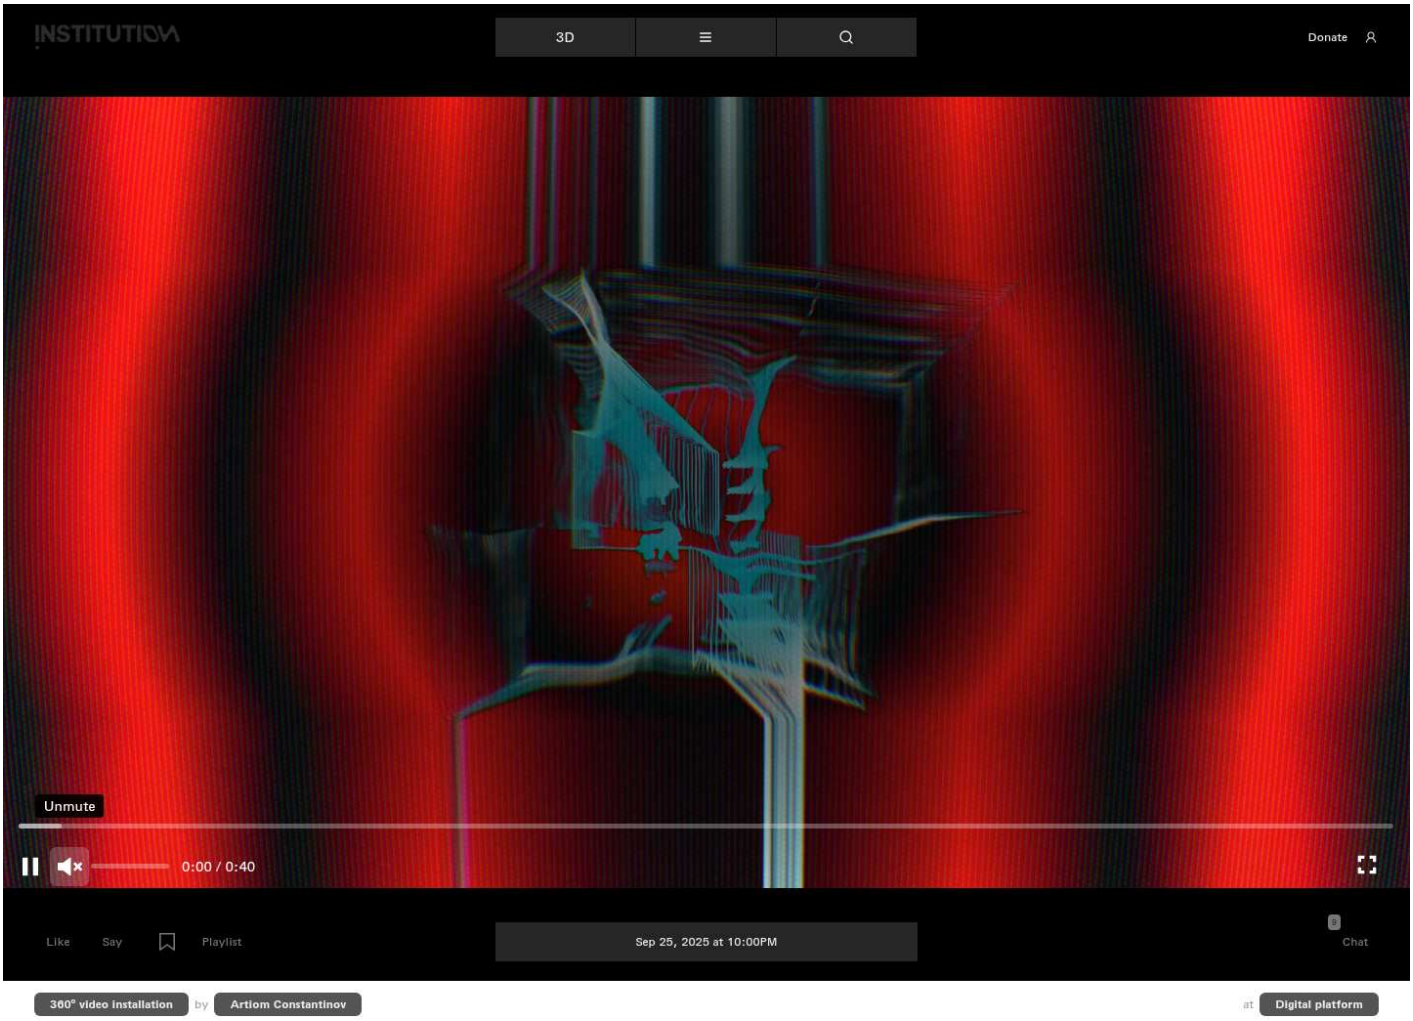

INSTITUTION

W045 原图纵向 3180–3331 像素

W046 · 旧版证据 046

《痛苦与苦难》：静音

用户操作	进入作品详情，点击静音控件。
实际结果	记录播放器或控件变化后的页面。
中文备注／不确定性	播放成功与否以播放时间、paused、readyState 或画面为证，不把出现播放器本身当作播放成功。
Figma	尚未取得设计画板，无法匹配

W046 原图纵向 0–1060 像素

“Pain, Suffering” is an audiovisual composition addressing cognitive dissonance in relation to the objectification and exploitation of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this fractured state of perception

At its core, the work features monologues that reflect on the conditions of animals in factory farms and, more broadly, on the shared capacity for pain and suffering between humans and non-humans. These voices underscore the inability—or refusal—to acknowledge that a piece of meat is the body of a living being who has been tortured and killed. Among the texts used are those by activist and educator Gary Yourofsky and by musician and activist Moby.

Musically, “Pain, Suffering” employs distortion and spectral filtering as metaphors for cognitive dissonance: clean sounds are warped until they become abrasive, or filtered to the point of being unrecognizable. The composition is audio-reactive, meaning the imagery responds directly to the evolving sonic landscape.

Visually, the piece juxtaposes documentary footage of factory farming and animal violence with generated and processed images, layering the real and the abstract to intensify the sense of unease and fracture. The result is an immersive environment where dissonance becomes both subject and aesthetic.

See Also

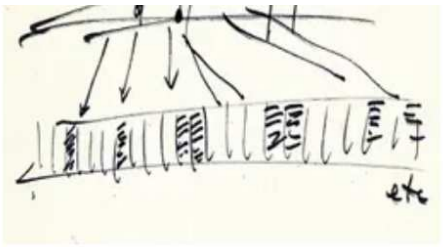

W046 原图纵向 1060–2120 像素

project for 2025

Institution was created to bring contemporary art back to the center of cultural life, restoring its essential role as a tool for reflecting on the present.

Institution under construction

Józef Robakowski
Attention: Light!

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Institution under construction

Artiom Constantinov
Pain, Suffering

"Pain, Suffering" is an audiovisual composition addressing the theme of cognitive dissonance applied to the objectification and use of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this state of dissociation.

Funded by the European Union
MINISTERO DELLA CULTURA

INSTITUTION

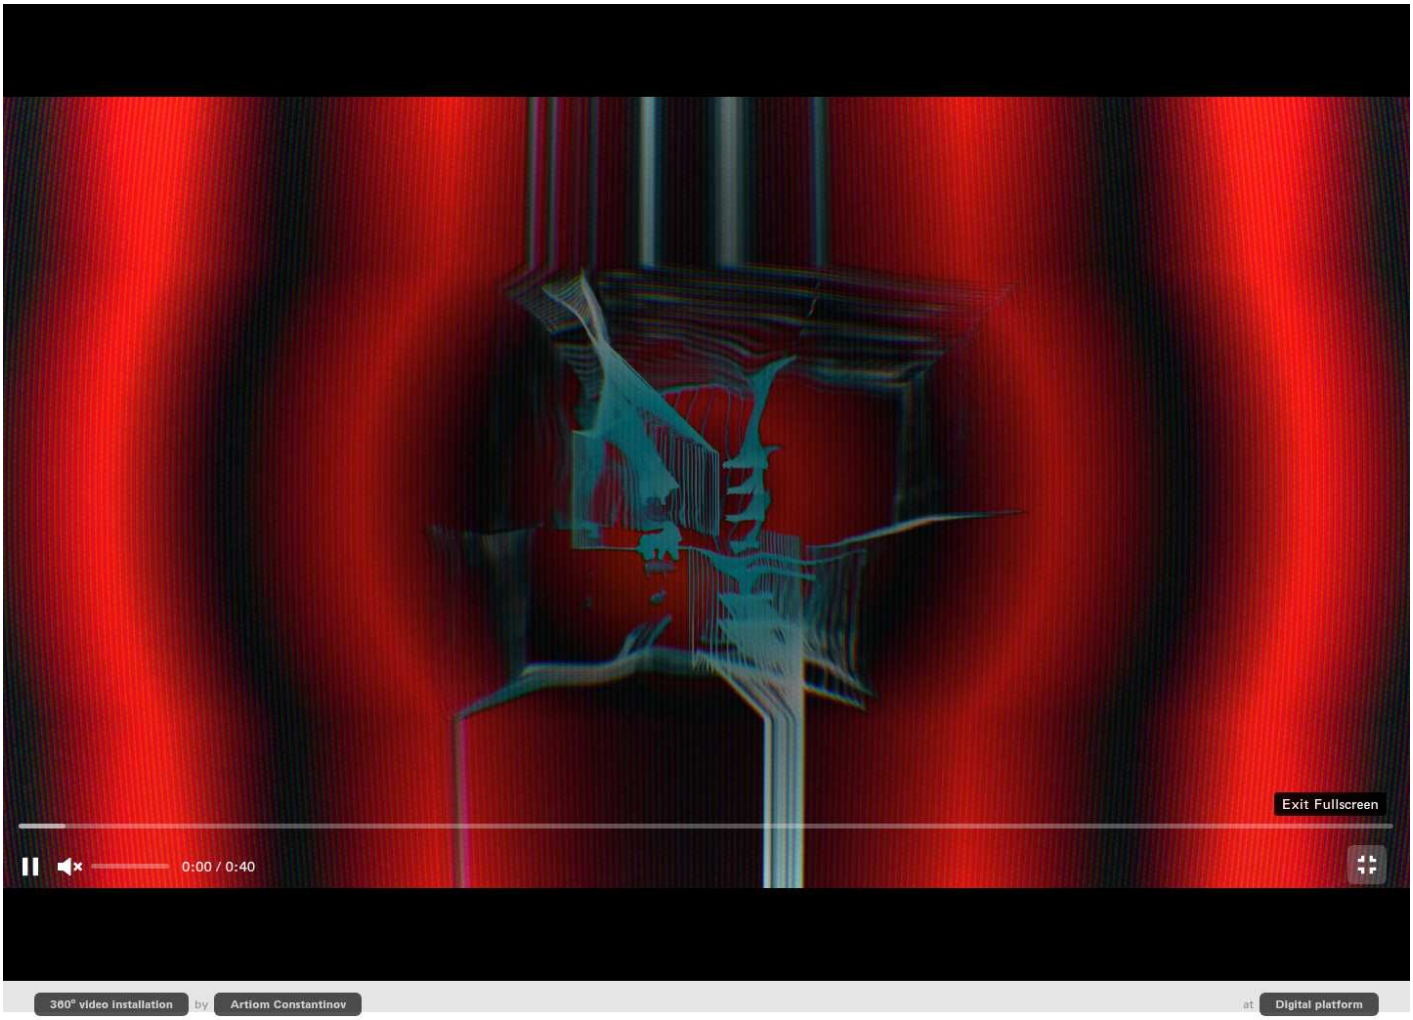

W046 原图纵向 2120–3180 像素

INSTITUTION

W046 原图纵向 3180–3331 像素

《痛苦与苦难》：全屏

用户操作	进入作品详情，点击全屏控件。
实际结果	记录播放器或控件变化后的页面。
中文备注／不确定性	播放成功与否以播放时间、paused、readyState 或画面为证，不把出现播放器本身当作播放成功。
Figma	尚未取得设计画板，无法匹配

W047 原图纵向 0–1060 像素

“Pain, Suffering” is an audiovisual composition addressing cognitive dissonance in relation to the objectification and exploitation of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this fractured state of perception

At its core, the work features monologues that reflect on the conditions of animals in factory farms and, more broadly, on the shared capacity for pain and suffering between humans and non-humans. These voices underscore the inability—or refusal—to acknowledge that a piece of meat is the body of a living being who has been tortured and killed. Among the texts used are those by activist and educator Gary Yourofsky and by musician and activist Moby.

Musically, “Pain, Suffering” employs distortion and spectral filtering as metaphors for cognitive dissonance: clean sounds are warped until they become abrasive, or filtered to the point of being unrecognizable. The composition is audio-reactive, meaning the imagery responds directly to the evolving sonic landscape.

Visually, the piece juxtaposes documentary footage of factory farming and animal violence with generated and processed images, layering the real and the abstract to intensify the sense of unease and fracture. The result is an immersive environment where dissonance becomes both subject and aesthetic.

See Also

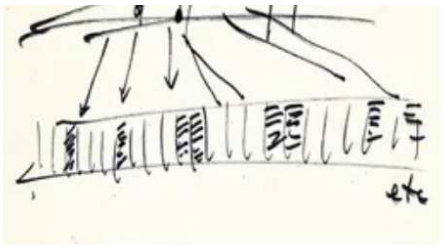

W047 原图纵向 1060–2120 像素

Institution under construction

Józef Robakowski

Attention: Light!

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Institution under construction

Artiom Constantinov

Pain, Suffering

"Pain, Suffering" is an audiovisual composition addressing the theme of cognitive dissonance applied to the objectification and use of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this state of dissociation.

W047 原图纵向 2120–3180 像素

W047 原图纵向 3180–3331 像素

以你亲手所写

从作品列表点击该作品；依次记录详情、播放、静音、全屏。切换作品前返回列表。

作品详情：以你亲手所写

用户操作	在 TV 列表点击该作品卡片（编号 9）。
实际结果	显示播放器、作者、发布时间、作品介绍和相关推荐。
中文备注／不确定性	下方互动按钮当前禁用；播放器的播放、静音及全屏另行截图。
Figma	尚未取得设计画板，无法匹配

W048 原图纵向 0–1060 像素

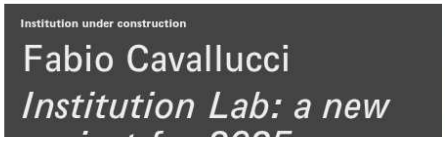

Video installation by Suzanne Lacy at Digital platform

In a Quito bullring, over 200 Ecuadorian men recite handwritten letters from women who suffered violence, converting a symbol of patriarchal authority into a space of public introspection and shared responsibility.

The performance departs from traditional narratives by placing men in the position of vocal intermediaries, transmitting the lived realities of women through a public, collective act. Their presence does not reassert dominance but rather reframes it as a conduit for acknowledgment and repair. Orchestrated in dialogue with local communities and state institutions, the work navigates the terrain between visibility and silence, inviting audiences to consider how voices are transmitted, received, and sustained in the public sphere. More than a symbolic reversal, the gesture reconfigures relations between gender, speech, and power, while raising urgent questions about cultural responsibility and systemic change.

See Also

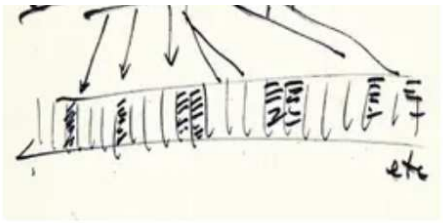

W048 原图纵向 1060–2120 像素

project for 2025

Institution was created to bring contemporary art back to the center of cultural life, restoring its essential role as a tool for reflecting on the present.

Institution under construction

Józef Robakowski
Attention: Light!

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Institution under construction

Artiom Constantinov
Pain, Suffering

"Pain, Suffering" is an audiovisual composition addressing the theme of cognitive dissonance applied to the objectification and use of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this state of dissociation.

Contacts
Privacy Policy
Cookie Policy

Funded by the European Union NextGenerationEU

MINISTERO DELLA CULTURA

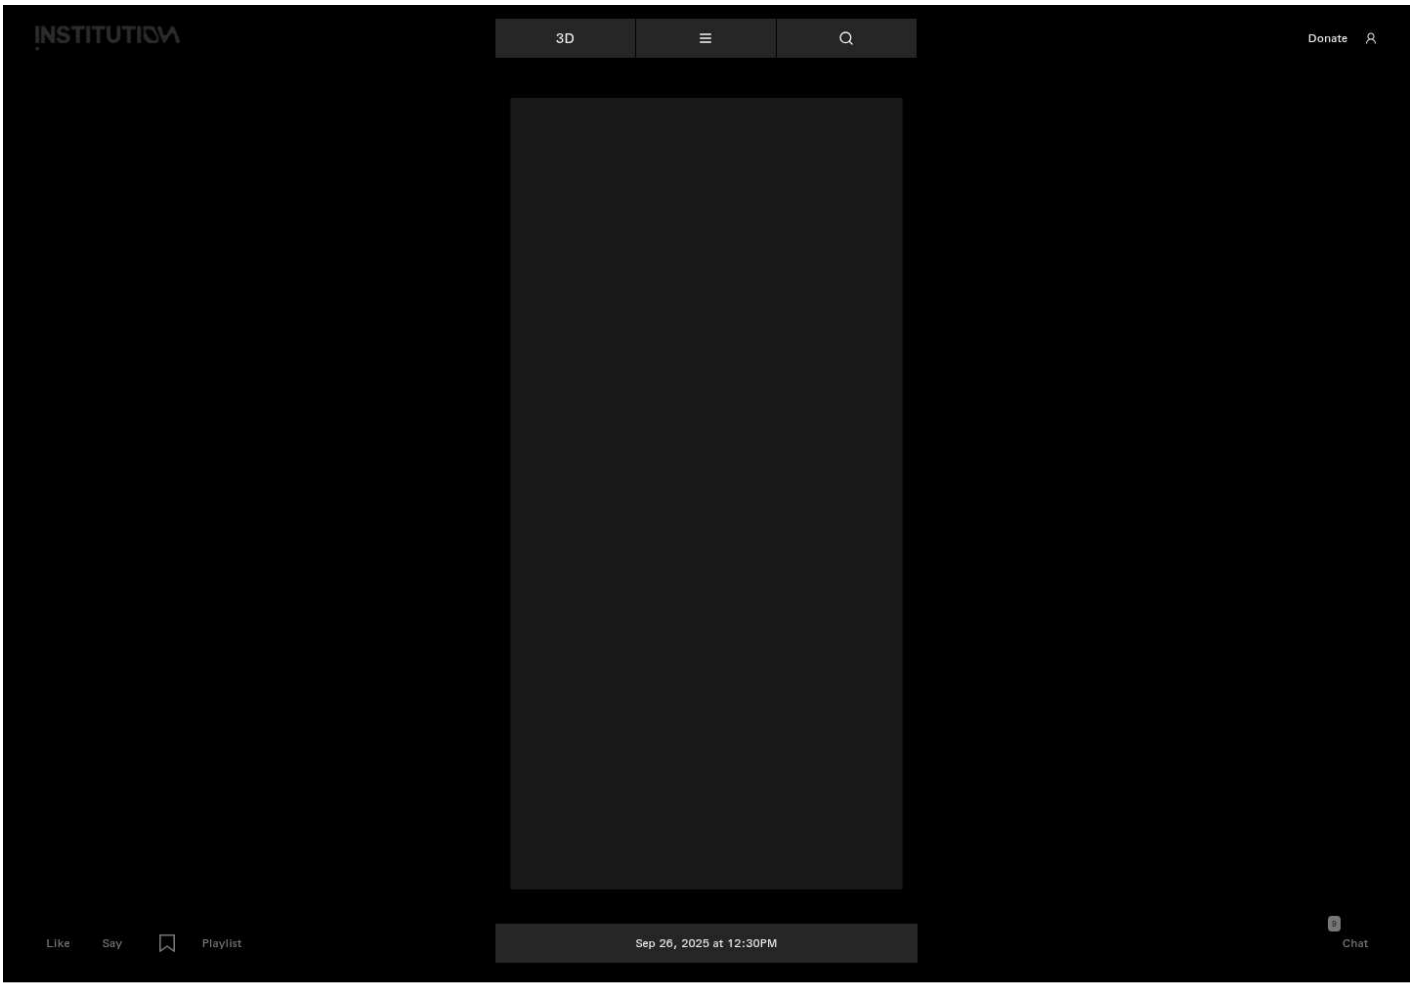

INSTITUTION

W048 原图纵向 2120–3180 像素

W048 原图纵向 3180–3307 像素

《以你亲手所写》：播放

用户操作	进入作品详情，点击播放控件。
实际结果	原生视频在采样时 paused=false，播放时间约 5.01 秒，readyState=4。
中文备注／不确定性	这些状态支持“播放已开始”，不代表完整播放至结束。未记录到视频错误。
Figma	尚未取得设计画板，无法匹配

W049 原图纵向 0–1060 像素

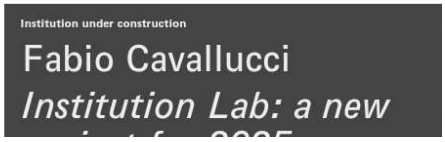

Video installation by Suzanne Lacy at Digital platform

In a Quito bullring, over 200 Ecuadorian men recite handwritten letters from women who suffered violence, converting a symbol of patriarchal authority into a space of public introspection and shared responsibility.

The performance departs from traditional narratives by placing men in the position of vocal intermediaries, transmitting the lived realities of women through a public, collective act. Their presence does not reassert dominance but rather reframes it as a conduit for acknowledgment and repair. Orchestrated in dialogue with local communities and state institutions, the work navigates the terrain between visibility and silence, inviting audiences to consider how voices are transmitted, received, and sustained in the public sphere. More than a symbolic reversal, the gesture reconfigures relations between gender, speech, and power, while raising urgent questions about cultural responsibility and systemic change.

See Also

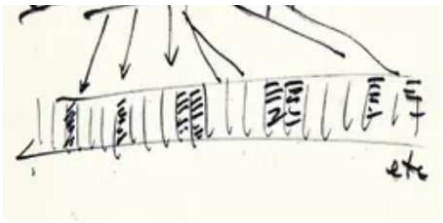

W049 原图纵向 1060–2120 像素

project for 2025

Institution was created to bring contemporary art back to the center of cultural life, restoring its essential role as a tool for reflecting on the present.

Institution under construction

Józef Robakowski
Attention: Light!

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Institution under construction

Artiom Constantinov
Pain, Suffering

"Pain, Suffering" is an audiovisual composition addressing the theme of cognitive dissonance applied to the objectification and use of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this state of dissociation.

Contacts
Privacy Policy
Cookie Policy

Funded by the European Union NextGenerationEU

MINISTERO DELLA CULTURA

INSTITUTION

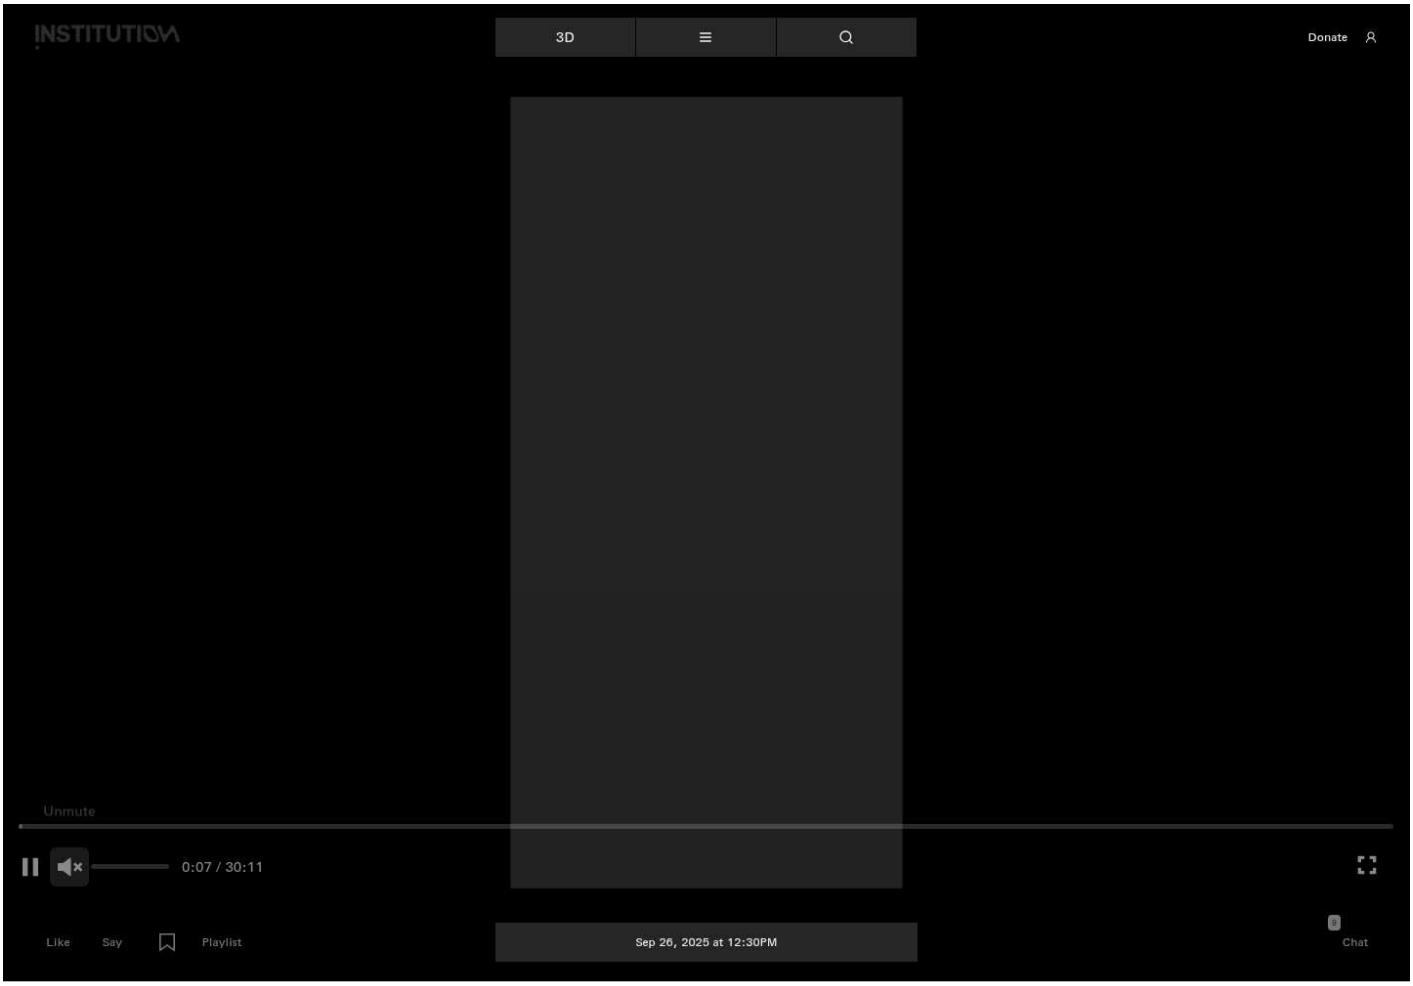

W049 原图纵向 2120–3180 像素

W049 原图纵向 3180–3307 像素

W050 · 旧版证据 050

《以你亲手所写》：静音

用户操作	进入作品详情，点击静音控件。
实际结果	记录播放器或控件变化后的页面。
中文备注／不确定性	播放成功与否以播放时间、paused、readyState 或画面为证，不把出现播放器本身当作播放成功。
Figma	尚未取得设计画板，无法匹配

W050 原图纵向 0–1060 像素

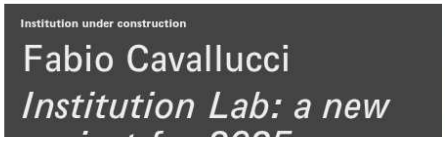

Video installation by Suzanne Lacy at Digital platform

In a Quito bullring, over 200 Ecuadorian men recite handwritten letters from women who suffered violence, converting a symbol of patriarchal authority into a space of public introspection and shared responsibility.

The performance departs from traditional narratives by placing men in the position of vocal intermediaries, transmitting the lived realities of women through a public, collective act. Their presence does not reassert dominance but rather reframes it as a conduit for acknowledgment and repair. Orchestrated in dialogue with local communities and state institutions, the work navigates the terrain between visibility and silence, inviting audiences to consider how voices are transmitted, received, and sustained in the public sphere. More than a symbolic reversal, the gesture reconfigures relations between gender, speech, and power, while raising urgent questions about cultural responsibility and systemic change.

See Also

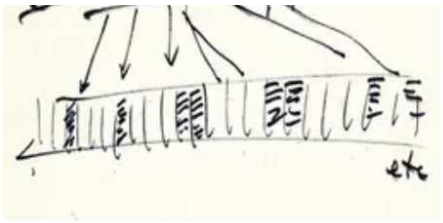

W050 原图纵向 1060–2120 像素

project for 2025

Institution was created to bring contemporary art back to the center of cultural life, restoring its essential role as a tool for reflecting on the present.

Institution under construction

Józef Robakowski
Attention: Light!

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Institution under construction

Artiom Constantinov
Pain, Suffering

"Pain, Suffering" is an audiovisual composition addressing the theme of cognitive dissonance applied to the objectification and use of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this state of dissociation.

Contacts
Privacy Policy
Cookie Policy

Funded by the European Union NextGenerationEU

MINISTERO DELLA CULTURA

INSTITUTION

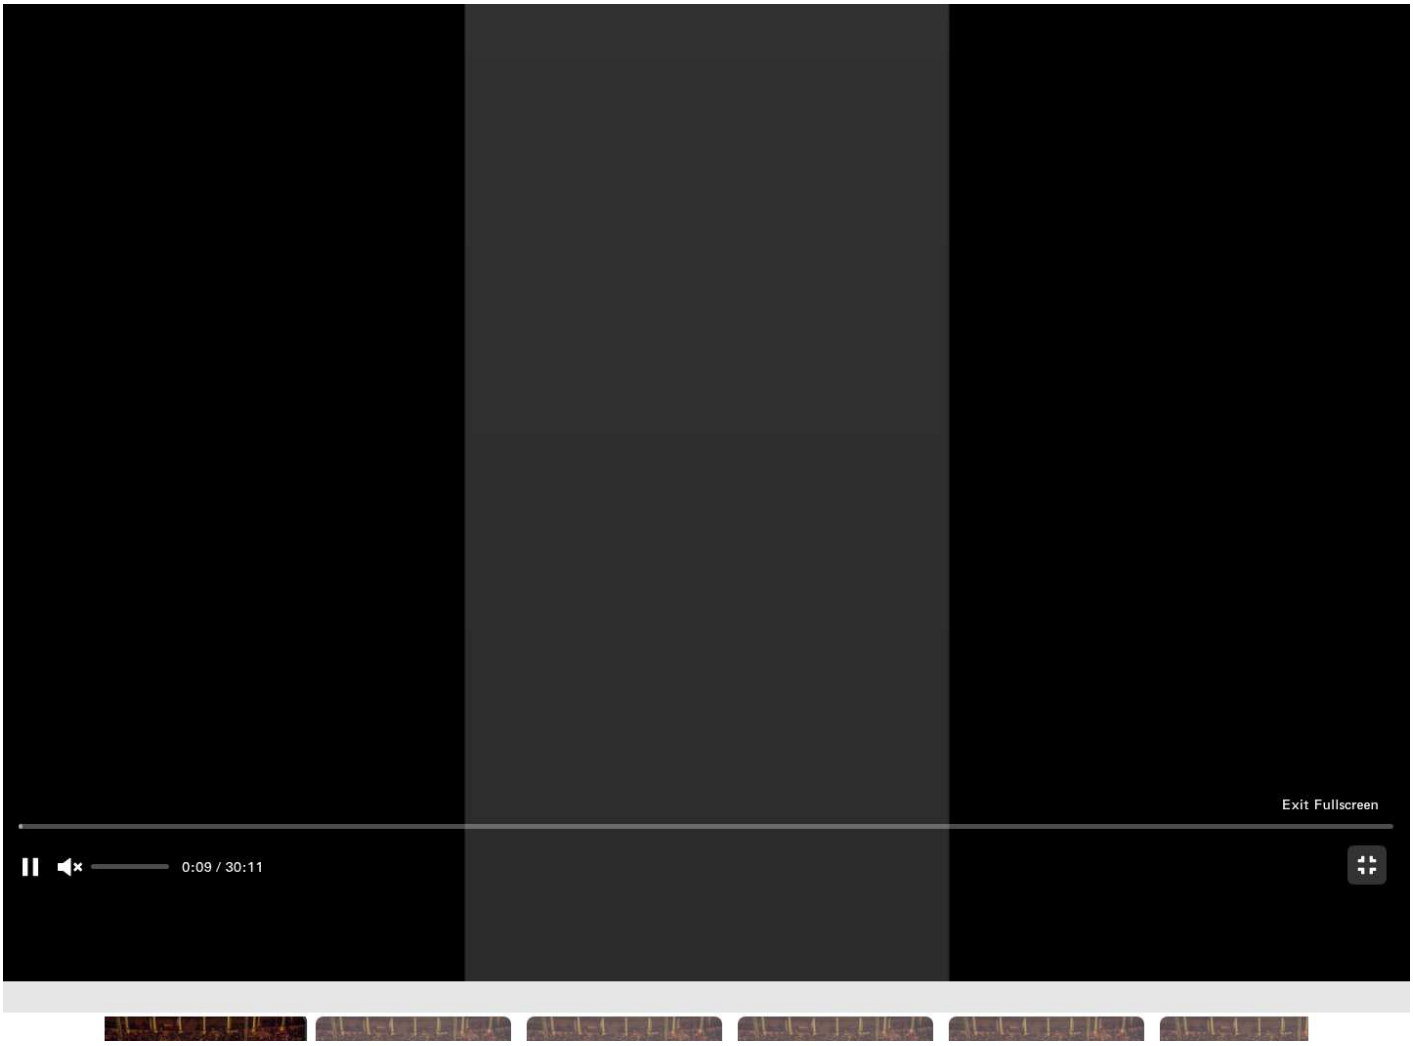

W050 原图纵向 2120–3180 像素

W050 原图纵向 3180–3307 像素

W051 · 旧版证据 051

《以你亲手所写》：全屏

用户操作	进入作品详情，点击全屏控件。
实际结果	记录播放器或控件变化后的页面。
中文备注／不确定性	播放成功与否以播放时间、paused、readyState 或画面为证，不把出现播放器本身当作播放成功。
Figma	尚未取得设计画板，无法匹配

W051 原图纵向 0–1060 像素

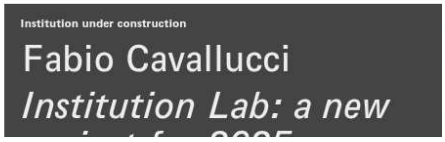

Video installation by Suzanne Lacy at Digital platform

In a Quito bullring, over 200 Ecuadorian men recite handwritten letters from women who suffered violence, converting a symbol of patriarchal authority into a space of public introspection and shared responsibility.

The performance departs from traditional narratives by placing men in the position of vocal intermediaries, transmitting the lived realities of women through a public, collective act. Their presence does not reassert dominance but rather reframes it as a conduit for acknowledgment and repair. Orchestrated in dialogue with local communities and state institutions, the work navigates the terrain between visibility and silence, inviting audiences to consider how voices are transmitted, received, and sustained in the public sphere. More than a symbolic reversal, the gesture reconfigures relations between gender, speech, and power, while raising urgent questions about cultural responsibility and systemic change.

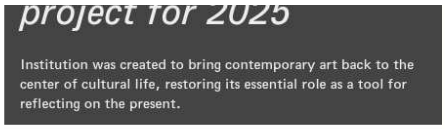

See Also

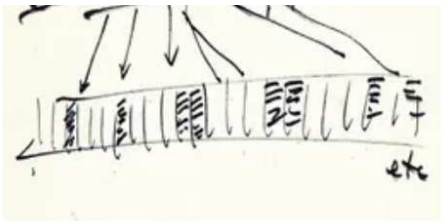

W051 原图纵向 1060–2120 像素

Institution under construction

Józef Robakowski

Attention: Light!

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin's final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Institution under construction

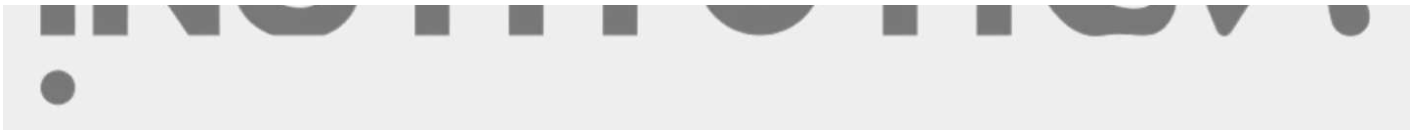

Artiom Constantinov

Pain, Suffering

"Pain, Suffering" is an audiovisual composition addressing the theme of cognitive dissonance applied to the objectification and use of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this state of dissociation.

W051 原图纵向 2120–3180 像素

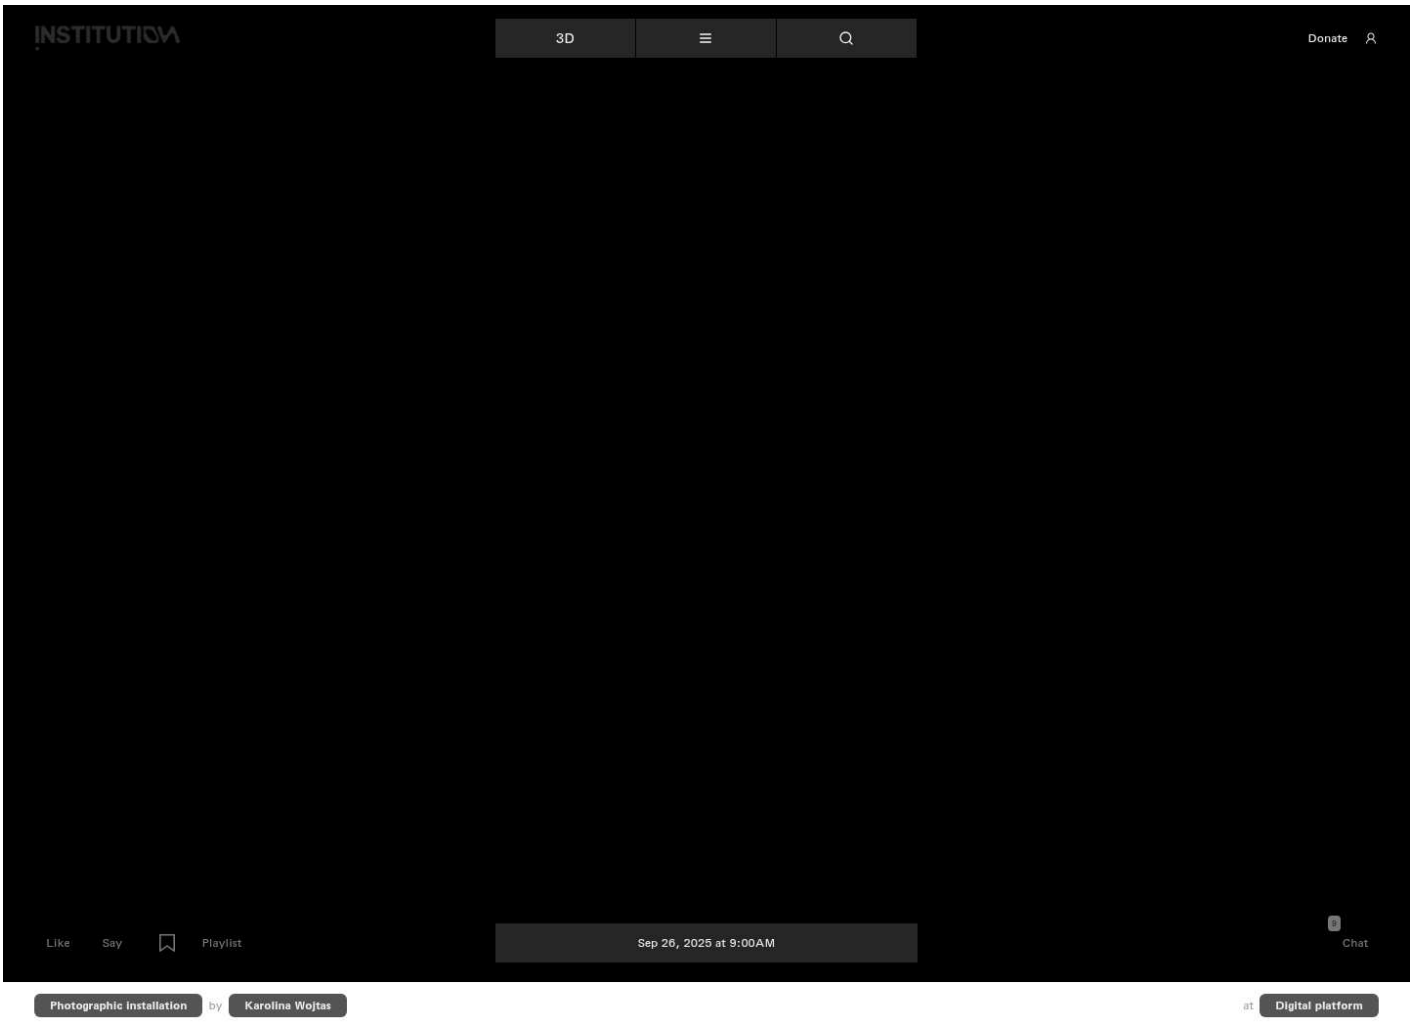

W051 原图纵向 3180–3307 像素

从网络中偷来

从作品列表点击该作品；依次记录详情、播放、静音、全屏。切换作品前返回列表。

作品详情：从网络中偷来

用户操作	在 TV 列表点击该作品卡片（编号 14）。
实际结果	显示播放器、作者、发布时间、作品介绍和相关推荐。
中文备注／不确定性	下方互动按钮当前禁用；播放器的播放、静音及全屏另行截图。
Figma	尚未取得设计画板，无法匹配

W052 原图纵向 0–1060 像素

Karolina Wojtas takes bizarre photos found online that once obsessed her and recreates them one-to-one, turning anonymous internet images into staged homages.

To “steal” them, she meticulously reconstructs the scenes: hunting for similar places, dressing models in the same clothes, and restaging the entire situation as faithfully as possible. Some of these recreated images have even returned to the corners of the internet where she first discovered them, at times outshining the originals. A notorious example is a communion photo that resurfaces every year, sparking the same flood of comments: “what kind of parents are these, what kind of family, how much money did the kid get?” The project both celebrates the pictures that shaped her imagination and highlights how images circulate online, detached from context yet endlessly reinterpreted.

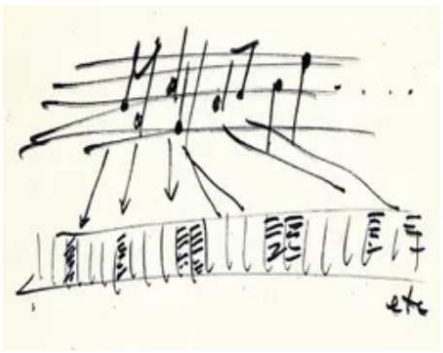

See Also

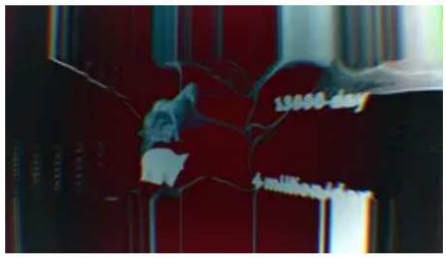

Institution under construction

Fabio Cavallucci

Institution Lab: a new project for 2025

Institution was created to bring contemporary art back to the center of cultural life, restoring its essential role as a tool for reflecting on the present.

Institution under construction

Artiom Constantinov

W052 原图纵向 1060–2120 像素

Institution under construction

Józef Robakowski

Attention: Light!

Inspired by a visual score envisioned by Paul Sharits before his death, this work translates Chopin’s final Mazurka into a composition of pulsating colours and light.

Pain, Suffering

"Pain, Suffering” is an audiovisual composition addressing the theme of cognitive dissonance applied to the objectification and use of non-human beings as food or commodities. Through images, monologues, and sound, it seeks to embody this state of dissociation.

W052 原图纵向 2120–3091 像素

W053 · 旧版证据 053

《从网络中偷来》：播放

用户操作	进入作品详情，点击播放控件。
实际结果	原生视频在采样时 paused=false，播放时间约 3.02 秒，readyState=3。
中文备注／不确定性	这些状态支持“播放已开始”，不代表完整播放至结束。未记录到视频错误。
Figma	尚未取得设计画板，无法匹配

W053 原图纵向 0–1060 像素